COUNTRY

The harriers of 1969 continued the slow improvement of Saint's Cross Country teams. O's men posted a 2-4 league record. On two of these loses less than six points separated the team from victory.

Despite the frequent loss of members from the varstiy, which were weakened by sickness, the J.V. members filled the ranks. The J.V. also pulled through a 2-4 league record. The J.V. missed victories by six points and twice by two points.

Coach O'Shaughnessy is saddened by the loss of his M.V.P. Leo Cauchon and two other strong competitors Jay Warren and Bob Martinez. Coach "O" will head into next year with strong returnees of Young, Brown and Grisez, who will fill the ranks of the leaving senior members.

Saints homecoming game saw our team matched against the Colts. The Saints blasted the Colts 49-6. Dave Davey led the attack with three touchdowns, and a stiff defense proved too much for the Colts.

Lincoln

This game was more a personal conflict which ended with the Saints on top again 13-0. Jesse Ochoa, back in action after an injury, ran for a touchdown as the team sparkled both offensively and defensively.

La Jolla

The last game of the regular season saw the Saints travel to La Jolla. Frankie George showed good form with two touchdowns as the Saints prepared for their playoff game with Kearny. Final score: Saints-38, Vikings-6.

Kearny

St. Augustine top rated defense stifled the No. 1 rated Kearny Komets offense with a 14-6 victory. This was the C.I.F. Metropolitan Division playoffs held on Nov. 21, in Balboa Stadium. The key touchdown was gathered in by End Willie Nathan, after Kearny's quarterback fumbled the ball in the end zone and was recovered by Nathan. The Saints defense was the outstanding feature in the game. They held the top rated Komets to only 6 points. The Saints other score came when Fullback Jesse Ochoa took the ball around the end.

Defensive end Willie Nathan with key touchdown.

San Diego

St. Augustine found themselves in the finals of the C.I.F. Metropolitan division matched against the San Diego Cavers. The Saints defense, plagued with key injuries, went into battle only to yield 31 points to San Diego's offense. The lone score for St. Augustine came when quarterback Pat Tormey passed 48 yards to halfback Frank George. This capped a 70 yard drive in 4 plays. Saints next drive ended just short of the goal line. Saints determination throughout the game was nullified by the passive calls of the referees. Although the season ended in a loss, the Saints finished their season with the best record in the city, 9-2.

This year's Junior Varsity Football team has followed in the footsteps of the other great teams by capturing an Eastern League Championship. The J.V. football team coached by Bill Whittaker and Jim Tollefson compiled a 7-2 league record. Varsity's coach Joe Di'Tomaso has had his eye on the Junior Varsity team ever since the middle of their season. From his scouting reports he has received from the Junior Varsity coaches the nucleus of next years varsity football team will be formed by the members of the Junior Varsity Football team.

Unfortunately, it was necessary to submit the swimming team page before the team's first meet. In fact, it was necessary to submit the page before the varsity and JV teams had been separated.

Larry Shepard served as coach this year, the team's fourth in five years, and one of the best yet. Although faced with the familiar problems of an overcrowded pool and swimmers of limited experience, he got the team into shape. The team was hurt when several of last year's lettermen were unable to compete this year because of jobs, grades and other reasons; however, freshmen participation was strong and helped make up for the losses.

Saints fielded the finest basketball team in its 48 year history this year. The Purple Gang won 28 of 32 games and became only the second team in the history of the Eastern League to complete an undefeated league schedule by going 12-0 in league play. The Saints took second in the University Tournament, third in the CIF playoffs, and third in the Kiwanis tournament.

In the words of William Finley, "the most impressive thing about Saints team is the word 'team'". Saints starting five, George Evans, Gary Monahan, Zach Peck, Ron Wrigley, and Tommie Davis, averaged 72.1 points per game, tops in the county. Evans led the group scoring 758 points, breaking Tom Shaules school record, and averaging 23.6 points per game. Guards Monahan and Peck made an impressive combination with their ballhandling, assists, long jump shots and steals on the Saint press. Junior center Wrigley was the team's leading rebounder as well as a fine shooter and defensive ballplayer. The finest all around player on the team was forward Davis, who would key the press, cover the oppositions top scorer, and constantly make the big play. Bench strength was provided by Bob McIver, swingman Pat Collins and Pat Tormey. Despite high scores and wide winning margins Saints Scout Squad, Jim Riley, Kevin Franc, Dan Ybarra, Ronnie Redondo and Jim Langland, saw action only in extremely rare situations. However, they served a purpose by tuning the players up for the games in practices and keeping spirit high.

In such a standout year one would think it difficult to single out standout performances but two performances are extremely exceptional. Zach Peck, the team captain, came from the obscurity of three seasons on the bench to more than adequately fill a guard vacancy. Sophomore sensation Bob McIver was handed the near-impossible task of replacing injured Tom Davis in the late season. McIver responded by averaging 11 points a game and becoming a defensive wizard.

This year's JV team, under the direction of first year coach Dick Hardick, posted a 12-11 record and placed third in the Eastern League. Although they failed to match last year's championship JV team, a number of fine future varsity prospects were produced. The team was led by its leading scorer Dave Applegate (14.0 per game) and Calvin Ricks, who led in rebounding with 8.1 per game. Robert George contributed 13.8 points per game, Charlie Flower averaged 12.8 points per game, and Kevin Banton pulled down 7.5 rebounds a game.

GOLF

This year's golf team, though lacking the big name players which past Saints teams have enjoyed, was nevertheless representative of our school in competition. First year coach Angus McDonald directed returning lettermen Dennis McDevitt, Tim Caulder, Steve Arsulich and Dan Crotty and had enthusiastic support from many underclassmen who will be the nucleus of Saints' future golf teams.

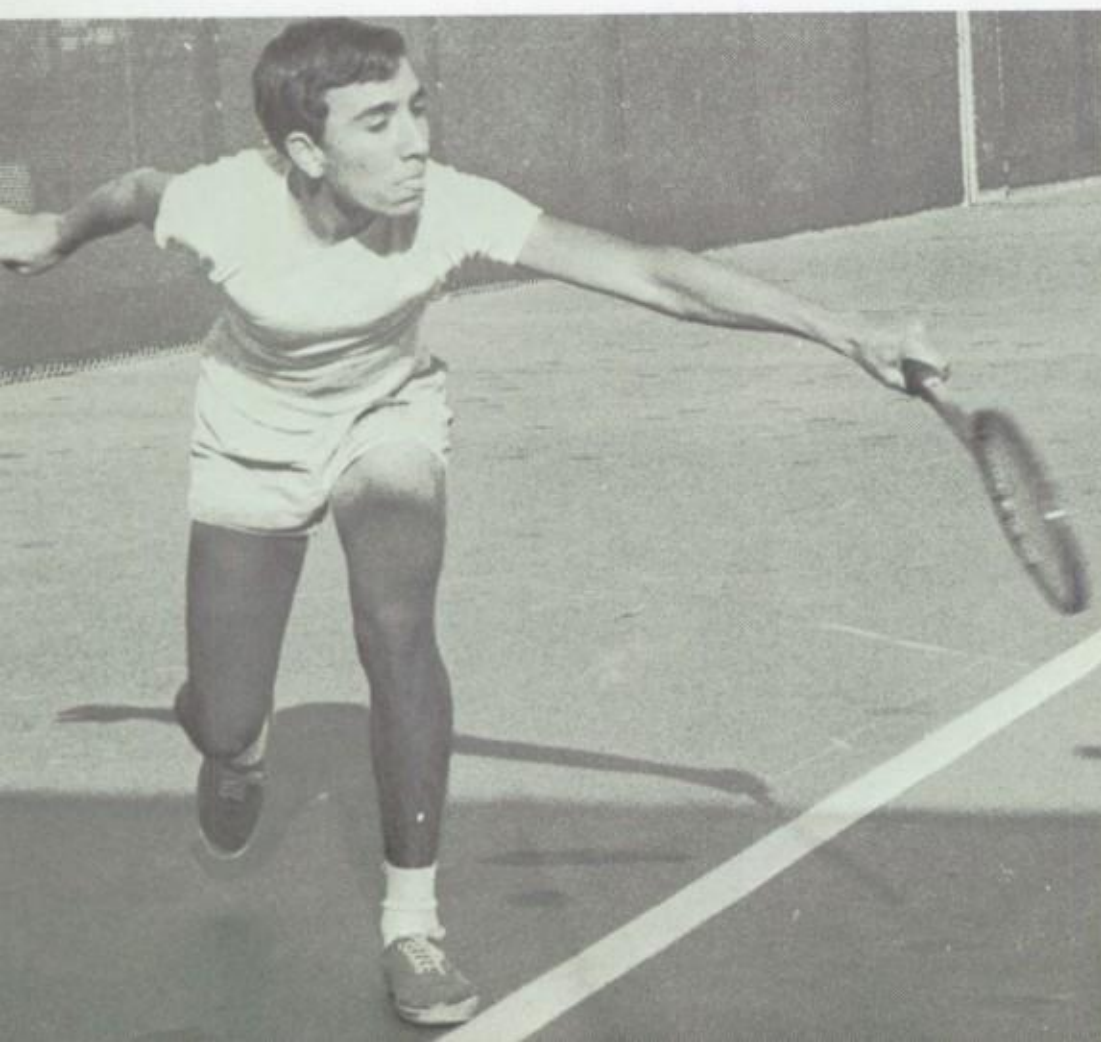

Varsity Team

TENNIS

The Tennis team, under the direction of Mike Morgan (now in his third year of coaching) received a strong underclass turnout in addition to returning Seniors Quentin Rosas, Ismael Orara, and Ruben Ferrari. The team figured strongly in league play and showed signs of an upcoming Eastern League tennis title.

TRACK

Saints' track squad entered the 1970 season with many bright prospects, some doubtful areas, and one dangerous weakness—a lack of experienced depth. Returning lettermen and CIF medalists Jesse Ochoa and Curt Young formed the backbone of the sprints. With no returning Varsity 440 men, Coach Bill O'Shaughnessy depended on Lupe Curiel and Mark Kasmer to bring in the points. Returning lettermen Leo Cauchon, Dave Villarino, and Sophomore Joe Loomis gave Saints a strong punch in the 880. Milers Jay Warren and Robert Martinez were joined this year by John Taylor and Dale Young. The 2 mile— Saints' traditional week point— was strengthened by Lebrado Guerrero, Arthur Brown, and Doug Smith. Scott Mowrey and Brian McColl lent their services in the hurdles.

Coach John Bowman inherited a largely inexperienced field squad. No shot putters returned and thus the team's only hope rested on the shoulders of Kevin Petite. Pat Collins returned to the high jump pits and was joined by Gerald Hunter and Monte Jackson. Brian Newell was the team's pole vaulter. Brian McColl, Pat Collins, and Jesse Wilson were also long jump participants.

The 1970 Baseball team at St. Augustine approached what may be its best season ever. The six returning lettermen this year were Jack Mannix, Chris Kinsel, John D'Acquisto, Jack Dobransky, Pat Tormey and Rod Spence. The Saints' Baseball teams in the past have won three straight championships in the Lions Tournament, but that was in the Limited Division and this year they were in the Unlimited Division, seated second, right after last year's winners. (This year's team could bring to Saints what it has always wanted, that is, the C.I.F. Championship.

This could be a reality because of the strong pitching staff of D'Acquisto, Dobransky, Bower, Wrigley and Tormey.) The remaining starting positions in the Saints lineup were filled by last year's J.V. Eastern League Champions. These players were Ron Redondo, Ray Medieros, Joe Caberra, Gary Monahan, Tom Carter, Dave Hemus, Ron Milner, Bruce Bulcao, and Ron Wrigley. With the players on this team there will be no stopping them as far as finishing on top of their league and as the best in San Diego.

ORGANIZATIONS

Jim Wilkins, who was underclass editor last year, used his experience and a lot of dedication as editor-in-chief of this year's Saintsman. Emery Crite did the Senior Class section, and Mike Crow the underclassmen. Rod Lorang edited the activities and organizations sections, and was responsible for this year's recruiting booklet. John Smitty arranged the faculty and staff, and Jack Dobransky did football, Jim Langland did basketball, and Jim Wilkins completed the balance of the sports section. Other assistance came from Donald Wahl, Dan Crotty, Bill Turk, Charles Rinck, Leo Cauchon.

Early in January, Fr. Rye (moderator) termed this year's annual "one of the best in quality the years have ever seen." Whether today bears him out or not, this year's staff has put in a lot of hours and a lot of work. There were more than the usual share of problems, nevertheless the 1970 SAINTSMAN is now in your hands, in all its beauty and splendor. With each page the staff kept one thought in mind: "These are the things memories are made of." Their only wish now is that, for each of you, those memories may be pleasant and well preserved.

LETTERMEN'S CLUB

There is no club at Saint Augustine larger than the Lettermen's Club, perhaps because there are more lettermen at Saints than there are blades of grass in a (lower field) lawn. Of course, it could also be because the club is one of the most active and social on campus, because it has the appeal of exclusiveness (not just anybody can join), because the letterman's jacket automatically produces a group feeling, or because Mr. Joseph DiTomaso is the moderator. Whatever the reason, it should be remembered that every member of the club had to work hard to get there. Heading this years mob was president Tony Marfin, assisted by fellow officers Pat Collins, Jesse Wilson, and Kevin Petite.

MATH CLUB

With Mr. MacDonald as its new moderator, the Math Club entered a new era: It staged the 11th annual Math Field Day, thereby beginning the second decade of these contests for Parochial grammar schools, attended by eighth graders from throughout the county. The club also competed in the field days at Occidental and San Diego State colleges. Phil Zelechowski was the primary student-mover in the group.

Phil Zelechowski

PEP CLUB

Spirit makes a high school great: it is behind every victory, every project that succeeds, and every individual decision to try again. It is the pep club that puts spirit into direct production, turning out the signs, ribbons, and posters used at rallies and games. There were problems, of course. A shortage of labor resulted in a shortage of pep ribbons for some football games, and membership was slightly below the average level. On the whole, however, President Kyle Brooks and his cohorts did a fine job. The run-throughs painted by Frank Martinez were excellent. Mr. Greenwald served as moderator.

Mr. McLaughlin and some of last year's returning members.

The Junior Red Cross is one of the few groups on campus oriented towards helping someone besides the student of Saint Augustine. Since it is "other-oriented" it is inconspicuous and sometimes (unfortunately) ignored. Its success is a real credit to its hard working members and to the generous student of this school.

...AND TEACHER'S AIDS

AUDIO-VISUAL

Dances, microphones, Masses, assemblies, platforms, rallies, games, and occasionally, things that don't work. In spite of all this, the audio-visual crew keeps the gym and cheerleaders in full-dress light and sound.

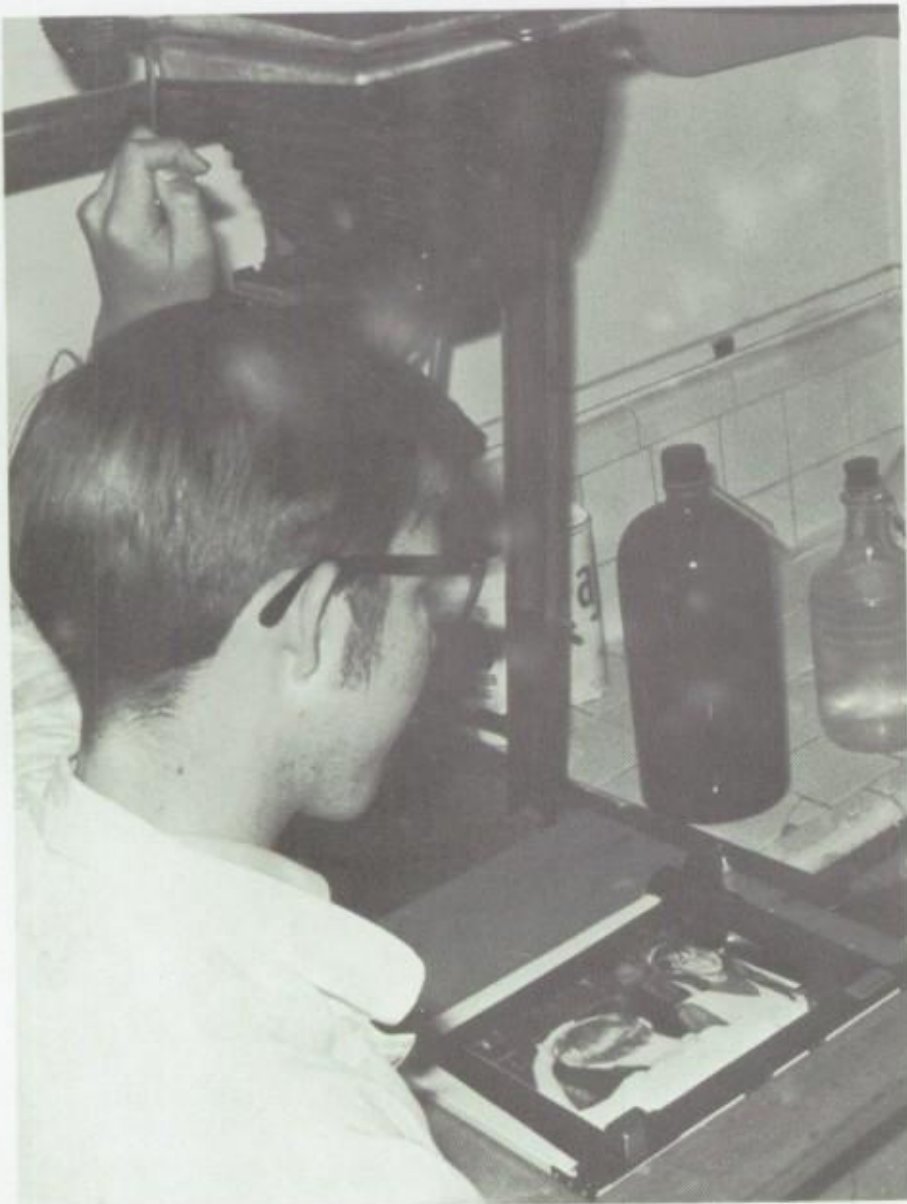

PHOTO STAFF

A year ago, most of the photographers at Saint were Seniors, and Fr. Smith (who was moderator at that time), realizing his staff was going to graduate on him, decided to make some new and better replacements. He started a photography class, recruited underclassmen, selected and trained the most promising among them. It is around this nucleus that the '69-'70 staff, still largely underclassmen, is composed. Their work has been surprisingly good and plentiful, and they have performed exceptionally well under the pressure of hurry-up job. Mr. Wilson served as moderator of the club and saw to the scheduling of pictures, assignments for games, etc., doing an excellent job in his first year at the post.

THE AUGUSTINIAN

Moderator J. Michael McDade

If the mark by which a newspaper is to be judged is its reception by the reading public, this year's AUGUSTINIAN need not fear. On campus, it was "must" reading for everyone, and at the girl's schools it was as popular as each school's own publication.

Credit for this success must be split several ways. Some must go to the long history of quality, accuracy, and completeness this year's staff inherited, and successfully upheld. Some must go to moderator J. Michael McDade, in his second year at such a position. Most of the credit, however, goes to the staff itself, which was larger and more representative of the entire student body than in previous years, as well as being willing to put in the time and effort needed to produce a high quality publication.

The Editor-in-Chief was Gary Monahan. Rod Lorang filled the newly established slot of associate editor; John Gallagher was in charge of news. Mike Darcy headed the expanded features section, which this year added ("Prose ' n Poetry" to its numerous columns. Dennis Buchanan was activities editor. Chuck Bower, assisted by Jim Langland, edited the most complete sports section seen at Saints in recent years, and added his own column on the subject each issue. The staff of writers and reporters included Zach Peck, Nick Leto, Mike Lehmann, Dan Crotty, Mike Wilson, Tom Waldron, Pat Sammon, James Yeatts, Harvey Gordon, Anthony Rocci, and Brian Davis, as well as those faculty members who wrote guest columns and editorials, and the girl's schools' correspondents.

BOWLING

The bowling league has two things no other club can claim: trophies, and Fr. Griswold as moderator. All students were urged to participate—week after week—early in the year, and many took advantage of the excellent opportunities: only thirty-five cents a line, free transportation, good exercise, and of course those trophies.

If the pictures on this page could talk, they would tell thrilling stories of high stake competition, of life-and-death matches, or immortal teams such as the "Bummers three" and of great scores like Fr. Griswold's 115. Of this year's bowlers it will always be said, "veni, vidi, vupertuous." (That is, "they came, they saw, and fortunately nobody else was watching.")

In the old days, the stage crew used to put up one set for one play, taking as long as was necessary. This year the stage crew had four plays to provide for. When Harvey was produced it was necessary to compete with the basketball teams. The stage went up for dress rehearsal, came down for practice, up for opening night after the J.V. game, down for practice, up for Thursday night, etc. Mr. Greenwald's three plays—Darlin' Boy, Adam and Eve, and Bury the Dead—each required different sets. It is safe to say that never has a stage crew worked as hard as this one.

BAND

Much can be said about the band, but little that is ever new. It is very active, with parades, rallies, games, and the annual concert. It is surprisingly good for a small school, but then again, it always is. It is a hot-bed of Saints' spirit, and a breeding ground for musicians. It is under the direction of

Mr. Frabota. So what is new? Jay Warren is drum major, the half time shows and pep band was better than last year, and the flag corps form Rosary (with which the band marches at football games and parades, along with OLP's pom-pom corps' was bigger and better than in recent memory.

"Yes, that's right. You blow in the SMALL end, and the sound comes out..."

CHESS AND HARMONICA CLUBS

Unfortunately, space does not allow a complete and fair recounting of the combined deeds of the chess team and harmonica club, so a simple summary of each will have to suffice. The chess team has long been established in the physics lab at Saints, and all levels of competition are available to the interested strategist, from the grand master computer built and programmed by Mr. Jennings (the moderator), all the way down to Mr. Jennings himself. However, neither of these see much action, and most students play each other, usually over lunch. The harmonica club is new at Saints, and is the only club under the moderation of a teachers aid-Steve Chambers. Student response to the club has been remarkable, and the future looks promising. President Don Wahl has proven to be an excellent player and tutor, but vice-president Mike Crow is more indicative of the group's ability level. The club, whose purpose is the "promotion of harmony," meets regularly for self-enjoyment and performed as the final act at the Christmas Assembly.

TRADITION

O, to move the heart's of men,
Though they be hard as flint;
To find the power that's in words,
And see myself in PRINT.

People like to write, and writers like to be published. This year, once again, TRADITION gave the student a chance to read the poetry, short stories, creative essays and literary criticisms he may have submitted, as well as the works of other students in the schools' own biennial publication. In the past, TRADITION has been largely a senior affair, but this year, underclass participation was extensive, and resulted in a much better magazine. Dwight Smith was editor, Steven Micheli assisted. Mr. John Bowman was again moderator.

Steven Micheli, assistant editor and major contributor, and Mr. John Bowman, moderator.

For years, all over the city, schools have been holding student exchanges. This year, thanks to a letter from Point Loma High, Saints found out about them. The discovery was soon followed by one yellow bus and twenty-five girls. In turn, we sent twenty-five of our gentlemen to the Point Loma campus. This first exchange was co-ordinated by Nick Leto and other members of the ASB; the second, with Abraham Lincoln High, was set up by Rod Lorang and Mr. Hardick. Both were complete successes, and at least one more exchange - with Patrick Henry - had been scheduled by late March.

STUDENT EXCHANGES

In addition to the all day exchanges arranged by the ASB, time block programs were operated between Saints and Rosary religion classes, and between the Saints and Lincoln seniors. Rosary students attended the philosophy elective in the first semester (as did several Crawford students), and the advanced biology seminar both semesters.

CSF

Some clubs at some schools do nothing at all. The chapter of the California Scholarship Federation at Saints does just a little better: It elects officers, collects dues, changes its membership each semester, and listens to Fr. Sullivan's annual talk on becoming more active. Meanwhile, the members keep busy producing the required G.P.A.

It should be noted, however, that most of the members are involved in the Math Field Day, recruiting, tutoring, etc. (the same activities that a more active CSF would encompass), through membership in other clubs. The members listed below are coded according to semester of membership. Those with no code were members both semesters. Those seniors with an (L) after their names have qualified as life-members.

ACTIVITIES

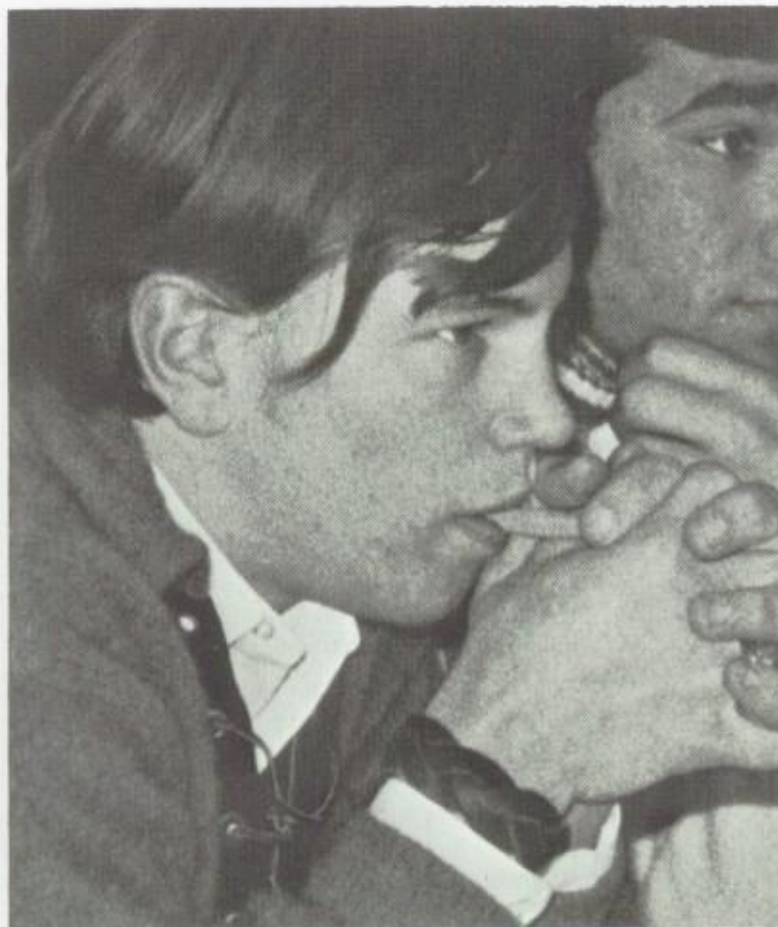

STUDENT BODY OFFICERS

President Nick Leto

Vice President Dave Davey

Secretary Lloyd Kavalcheck

Treasurer Frank Barrack

Commissioner of Communications Rod Lorang

Commissioner of Elections Kyle Brooks

Moderator, Mr. Hardick

Running student activities from the inside is a lot harder than just being part of them. Dances, exchanges with other schools, assemblies, homecoming, the ASB ball and the prom, newly revised constitutions, clubs, "man of the month," etc., all take a lot of time. The men on these two pages are the ones who, with the various class officers, give their time to these activities and to the students. They did more than most of their predecessors. Students finally have relief from the "greenie" system in the new student court. The cone situation was discovered to lack even such basic points as rules for voting procedures, and revisions to establish the office of Commissioner of Communications and abolish Commissioner of Athletics, so it was put under scrutiny at mid-year. The decorations and bids for the ASB ball made even the Masonic Temple seem new again. Assemblies were better and more numerous, exchanges were begun for the first time. If next years Student Council is going to be as good as this one, it will have to work very, very hard.

"INTRAMURALS" AND SOCCER

Pat Collins of the "Skins" takes a free throw against the eventually victorious faculty.

A year ago, the intramural program was taken out of the hands of the students, and given to the coaches. At first, everything went well. This year, however, the program was reduced from the usual four sports to one. Basketball was organized early in the year, and was quite successful until the faculty beat the seniors. After that, there was nothing but rumors. Football would come during basketball season, or volleyball would start after Christmas, but it never did. Part of the problem was the short modular lunch schedule, part of the solution was students setting up their own lunch-time games. Even so, the spirit and fun of section against section, in a game where the winner won something, was missing.

Soccer was more of a reality. Operating on a club level at high schools throughout the city this year, it should soon become a recognized sport. The Saints' team, competing in the "B" league, won one game and tied three. They were hampered by the lack of a coach, but John Eislie from State College helped out. At the seasons end, the team elected Tony Souza best goalie, Jose Kelly best forward, and Rick Russell best defenseman and most valuable player. The club was moderated by Mr. DeMonner, but what is really needed is status as a sport, and a real coach, both of which should be forthcoming in a couple years.

BOOSTERS...

The artwork on this page, admittedly, is a poor substitute for the pictures a postal strike made waiting for impossible. However, they do tell a story. The boosters, for instance, were among the most rabid and militant of Saints fans, despite their age and their newness. The parents' group, which replaced separate mothers' and fathers' clubs, did a lot in the way of award, refreshment at such activities as the open house, organization, besides all the things that a student never hears about and never becomes aware of. The students may go to the school, and the faculty may do the actual teaching, but it is the parents who make the school move.

The boosters are equally important. They provide the solid core of cheering parents that are needed at games, they let the adult Saintsmen become a part of what is going on. Both groups are very important, and even if we didn't get the pictures we should have, we appreciate all of you.

... AND PARENTS

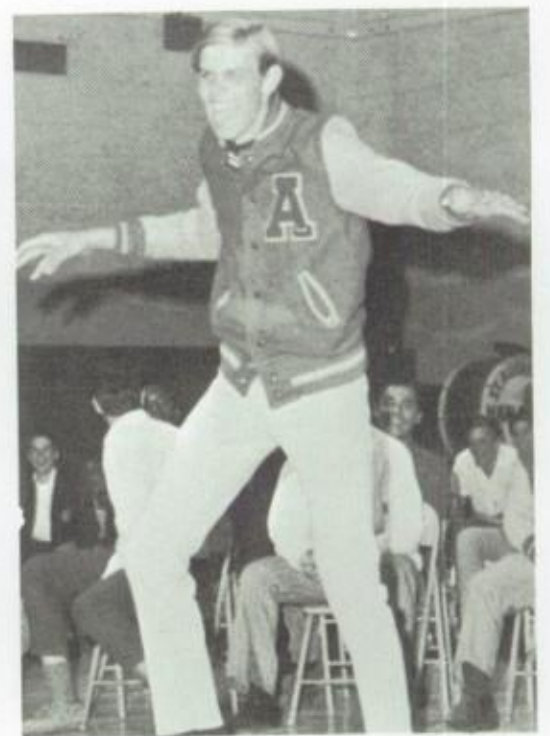

Ran out.

RALLIES AND ASSEMBLIES

This year's pep-rally committee was moderated by Mr. Greenwald, with Mike Lehman in the chairman's spot. Tom Smith (the senior). Jim Langland, Zach Peck, Gary Monahan and Ron Wrigley were regulars, and anyone else who had a joke contributed. A new, and very popular innovation was the use of a multi-skit technique. Besides the regular skit, each rally had several shorter ones, spaced to break up the chain of speakers and cheers. Early rallies featured confetti, but when clean-up proved too difficult, it was discontinued. The rally at which the homecoming candidates were introduced topped anything in the last four years in showmanship and organization.

Other assemblies included a young speaker from the Navy Department of Public Relations, and a jam-session with "Solid Brass." The annual Christmas assembly got off to a poor start, and never had a chance to recover. It ended early, soon after the redecoration of the gym and tree in "Christmas White" paper tirmming.

SPIRITUAL ACTIVITIES

CHAPLAIN

I address these few words to the students of St. Augustine High School, both to those who are about to graduate and to those who will remain. Do not forget that this is a special school—we publically proclaim and base our existence on the belief that God and man have become reconciled in Jesus Christ. If a student should leave this school no closer to God and his friends than when he entered, then he has wasted his time and he has wasted ours. To those who leave: May you walk with God. To those who remain, use your time well—try and find God and keep close to him.

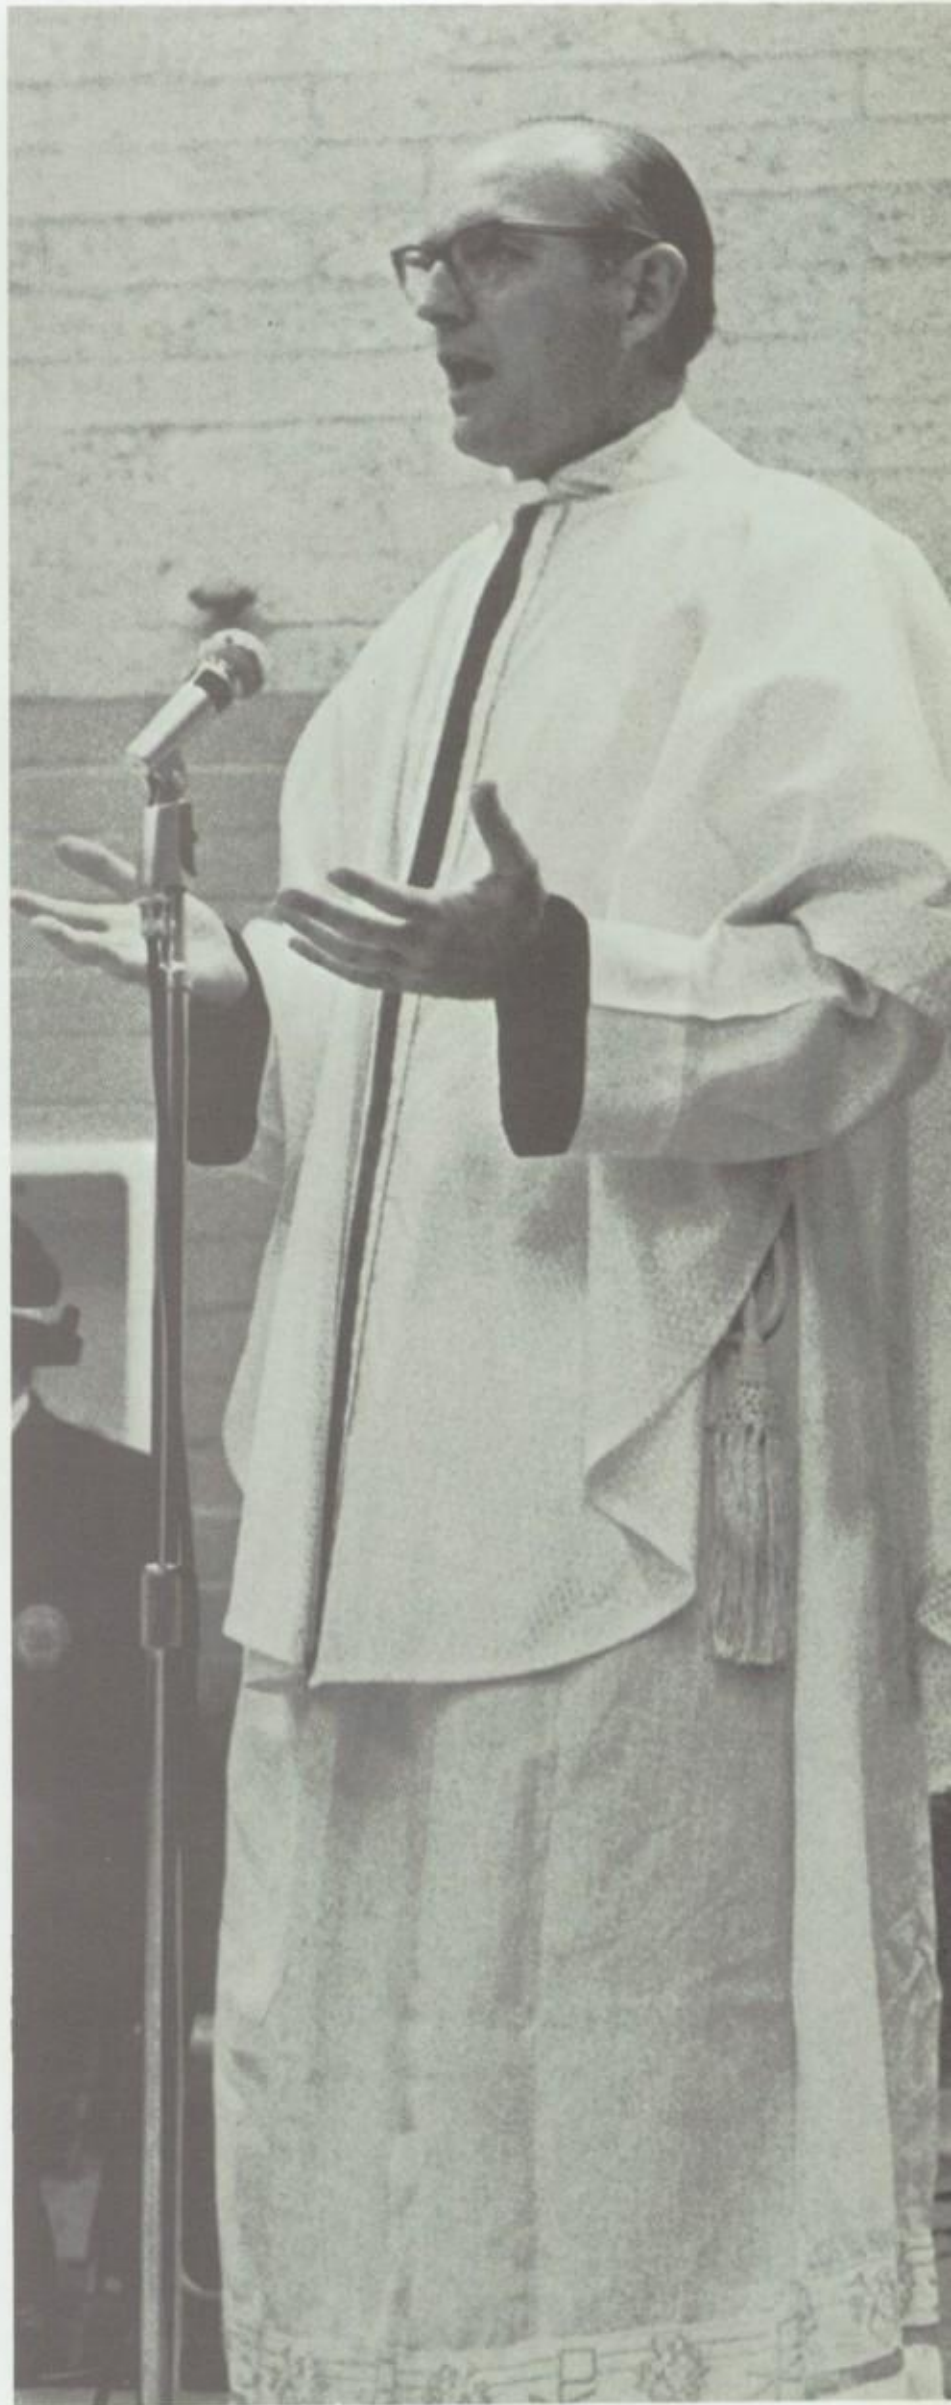

Fr. Gary C. Rye, O.S.A.

Mr. Watt becomes Deacon Watt.

There were Masses in the gym, of course, and there are always religion classes. But this year's Spiritual Activities covered a much wider range. Days of recollection were better than in previous years. Mr. Watt was ordained a Deacon at a special mass. The mission collection for the first semester was a huge success, with about $1,000 dollars donated. The freshmen proved extremely generous. The second semester collection began at least as well. Fr. Rye, the school chaplain, offered mass in the chapel on Fridays in lent and at the beginning of the year. The senior marriage seminar was expanded and moved to Balboa Park. A large number of seniors gave their time to tutor at Memorial Jr. High, the juniors began their own tutoring program at a local elementary school, and other students worked at Bayside. The number of juniors and seniors who have been on the "Search for Christian Maturity" at Camp Oliver got larger and larger. Even the chaplains office received heavy use, at least until the yearbook staff was told to move. More and more, the emphasis in spiritual activities seemed to be shifting from the gym and classroom to the world, and the people of God, outside.

HOMEcoming

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

Last summer, there was the reunion of the class of '58. In November, there were the reunions for the classes of '49 and '59. This summer, there will be a reunion for the class of '60. These reunions represent what the alumni association has done for the alumni. They have done even more for the students.

Let us forget, for now, the help the alumni are financially, because you don't talk about money in a yearbook. (You talk about it in letters to the alumni.) That still leaves quite a lot. Homecoming on November first was an alumni function, from the reunions to the crowning to the banquet, even though the junior officers helped. The alumni sponsored Saint's parochial basketball tourney, and the annual math field day. They sponsored the alumni basketball games and dance, and won both games, with the young alumni defeating our varsity and the old alumni downing the faculty. The annual add drive, under their direction, is the most successful fund raising activity we have. The sports appreciation banquet—with all those trophies—is another alumni sponsored activity, which this year featured Rockets coach Alex Hannum as the key-note speaker.

Fr. Gavotto, Alumni moderator.

Mrs. Shaw fills space on Alumni Association page.

The officers of the Alumni Association this year leaned heavily toward the class of '55. President Larry Blick, Vice president Jim Russel, Secretary Bob Morrissey and Fr. Gavotto, the moderator are all 1955 graduates. Treasurer Leo Shaw comes from the class of '53, and activities chairman Pat Ferguson is the oldest, from the class of '49. Jean Shaw, who does all the alumni mailing and keeps office in Vasey hall, is the only "officer" who is not a Saints graduate, and the only one on anyone's pay role for her work with the alumni.

The pictures of these officers do not appear for a very unavoidable, but none-the-less tragic reason. They had been scheduled for a Sunday, and the week before the postal strike began. It was necessary to send the last of the book in to the printers immediately, while we were still reasonably sure of a mail service to deliver it.

Dramatics at Saints rested in two sets of competent hands this year: Mr. Bowman masterminded the production of Harvey, and Mr. Greenwald presented Darlin' Boy, Apple Tree, and The World of Sholom Aleichem in the second year of what promises to be a long and fruitful career.

Harvey represents Mr. Bowman's eighth year of directing at Saints. Artistically, the play reached or exceeded the high levels Mr. Bowman has established as the norm for his productions. It was, quite simply, a good play. The cast enjoyed it, Mr. Bowman enjoyed it, even the audiences enjoyed it. At least, what audience there was enjoyed it: crowds were small, and the play was not the financial success that it should have been. John Gallagher served as student director, and Cathy Osborne handled publicity. Rod Lorang portrayed Elwood P. Dowd in the lead role, opposite Irene Rodgers of Rosary as Veta Louise Simmons.

The first of Mr. Greenwald's three one act plays—

Darlin' Boy—was presented at State College as part of the annual High School One-Act Festival. The audience loved it, but the judge didn't agree. The major role in this play—that of Paddy McDinty—was played by junior Rod Smedley. The play was also presented at Saints as part of Mr. Greenwald's mid-April show.

One of the other plays presented in April was the first act of Apple Tree, a pleasant musical comedy starring Pat Sammon and Cathy Ordona (of Rosary) as Adam and Eve respectively. The play was produced by Ann Kern, a friend of Mr. Greenwald's and a graduate student at State. The play is based on a story by Mark Twain, and was a Broadway hit in '67. The part of the devil was not cast by the final deadline.

The last play of the series chosen by Mr. Greenwald was The World of Sholom Aleichem, a play he described as "more in keeping with my ethnic associations." The play was written by Arnold Perl, and also was uncast at this writing. Two of the three short sketches that make up World were presented. Along with Darlin' Boy and Apple Tree they made a most enjoyable evening.

MAKING YESTERDAY LIVE FOREVER

The fun and excitement of putting together a yearbook cannot be told in one short page, nor can the disappointments and frustrations. When I first began to plan the 1970 SAINTSMAN, I had no idea it would be like this. In fact, I hardly ever knew what I was going to do until I did it. Of course, there were some basic guidelines which I set down from the beginning, but other than that 90% of this book is an ad lib from the original plan. My staff and I tried to keep things from being dull. Sometimes we succeeded, sometimes we failed. We did bear in mind, though, that this is your permanent remembrance of your senior year, a yesterday that should live forever. We hope you enjoy reading it as much as we did producing it.

I would like to express my deepest gratitude for the aid and cooperation of Fr. Gary Rye, the moderator, and Mr. Charles Binkowski, our yearbook representative. Our thanks are also extended to Busco-Nestor Studios, Reyman Studios, and the Copley News Service, for services enabling us to complete the 1970 SAINTSMAN.
